

Lura Sharp's WLSE Newscast

The WLSE Newscast is part of Lura Sharp Elementary School's Morning Program. More than thirty fifth grade students have been chosen through a job application process to be part of our news team. Those students will be interviewing guests, reporting about ways to cope with bullying, announcing intriguing facts about the world and animals, promoting good manners, reporting on our world's biomes, along with other segments of the newscast. These fifth grade students will be working with staff members Joan Tansey, elementary counselor, Susan Yard, a teaching assistant, Traci Lapp, a reading teacher, and Tamara Woodruff, fourth grade teaching assistant. Each group will meet on Tuesday and Wednesday for two weeks and will be responsible for the broadcast on the Thursday of the second week.

The Morning Program theme this year is Wild About School. This year's WLSE segments pertain to the many aspects of our school and our world, and include: Dear Josie (an advice column), Anyone Can Bake a Cake, Snowflake the Gorilla, What Would You Do, Let's Visit the Zoo, and In Our Own Backyard. We hope you can stop by to catch up on Lura Sharp news and witness some super reporters! You can also check us out on our teacher web page. Our upcoming broadcasts dates are as follows.
